HISTORICAL PAGEANT

Three Periods of Andover's History Depicted in Beautiful Fete Held on Brothers Field Wednesday Afternoon—Veterans of the G. A. R. Took Part

Wednesday, June 7, on Brothers Field, the Historical Pageant marked the calendar of Andover's Historical Society as a "Red Letter Day".

Although the proverbial sunshine and warmth of that date was notably modified, Brothers Field blossomed with color and was stirred with animation. An Historical Pageant typified the evolution of New England conditions, and occupied the attention of a large and thoroughly interested audience for two full hours, introduced by the president of the society, Dr. C. E. Abbott, in cap and gown. There is probably no New England town where articles of ancient dress abound in the same degree, and this choice array was fully displayed in the varied costumes.

Old Father Time, scythe on shoulder and hourglass in hand—Rev. E. Victor Bigelow—announced the coming of each scene, the first of which was a distinguished Puritan leading his family to their house of worship, gun in hand as befitted the era of the hostile Indian—each member of the group critically glancing toward the grove where a redman's figure was apparent. Then came the little episode of John Alden and Priscilla, followed by a later civilization representing Samuel Phillips—

ABBOT COMMENCEMENT

Eighty-Seventh Anniversary Exercises Marked by Graduation of the Largest Class—Baccalaureate at South Church by Rev. J. Edgar Park

The eighty-seventh anniversary of Abbot Academy, combining the exercises relative to commencement, was celebrated this week. Sunday morning at the South Church the baccalaureate sermon was preached by Rev. J. Edgar Park of West Newton, a former pastor of the West Church. There was a large congregation including many of Mr. Park's former parishioners. Monday the program included the Draper recital, the lawn party and the annual musicale, but unfortunately the weather interfered with the enjoyment and the lawn party was held indoors.

Tuesday the largest class ever graduated from Abbot, forty-five in number, attended the commencement exercises at the South Church and an excellent address was given by Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, D.D., of Montclair, N. J. The diplomas were presented by Miss Bailey, principal.

Baccalaureate Sermon

The Baccalaureate sermon was preached in the South Church by the Rev. J. Edgar Park of West Newton. Mr. Park took as his text the words from First Corinthians, 2:9: "Eye hath not seen nor ear heard, neither hath entered into the

A Charming Gluck Record, of "My Old Kentucky Home"

The pure loveliness of Gluck's voice is shown to excellent advantage in this simple ballad of the old South. The famous song of Stephen Foster's always fastens upon the heart, and the warm beauty of the singer's voice lends to it an exceptionally sympathetic effect. A quartet of male voices adds to the attraction of this new rendition of the old plantation melody.

HISTORICAL ANDOVER—NO. 163

Some Famous Surgeons

Dr. John (4) married in Tewksbury, Sarah Merriam of an old line there about 1736, and she was the first Kittredge mother in the old home of the Abbotts. Miss Bailey tells most of him in her book. There the family stayed till 1784 when babe Joseph (6) was a year old, when Father Thomas (5) raised the elegant new Colonial mansion we are so familiar with. John (4) died last on the old place in 1776, after establishing a reputation for skill in surgery as well as mental treatment of the insane. The Tewksbury lines that stayed on also developed many famous doctors. One I recall named Asaph in the (6) generation was on a privateer runner in the war of 1812, and after he was established at Paris, Maine, as a surgeon, used to go over into New Brunswick to heal the sick, comforted on the lonesome rides with his tobacco which was his only dissipation. Every family had the gift of healing. Even the daughters were able to go out on sudden calls in the absence of the father to set bones. Of the sons of John (4) Thomas (5), born 1740, with a wife of another gifted line in medicine, Susan Osgood, began practice in 1768, was at Bunker Hill and went through the hard war, to die of apoplexy in 1815. He was the most famous and his career is in all the encyclopedias. He had one sister, it is said a fine reason herself, who married John Dwyer of Salem, New Hampshire. Brother Ben (5) was in Tewksbury and Dover many years and had eight sons, all doctors—Henry of Dover, Ben of Exeter, John of Framingham, Jacob of Billerica and Ohio, Rufus of Portsmouth, George of Epping, Theodore of Kittery, and Charles of Watertown. In one line I can't stop to trace for you from my file came Solomon Kittredge, who married Tabitha Ingalls of Andover in 1755, went to Amherst, N. H. (includes Mont Vernon now), and from that line the wife of Dr. Bancroft of Philips came, who left two sons still here. How those Kittredges used to enjoy the family reunions each summer at Mont Vernon, where the head of the clan had a sanatorium, I think it was; anyway, he was a healer of men too.

The children of our Andover Thomas (5) include John (6), head of the Taunton Insane Asylum; Polly Osgood (6), who married Lemuel Lebaron of another famous line of French refugees here. (See "Dr. Lebaron and his friends", etc., at the library.) Judge David Cummings, an eloquent Salem member of the Essex Bar, married first Katherine (6), then her sister Maria (6), and the last was mother of the Maria Cummings, author of "The Lamp-lighter" and "Mabel Vaughn", and did some of her work at Andover in the old mansion. Local settings of Salem and the North Parish are sure to be caught therein.

The babe Joseph (6) grew up in the fine new house and added to the rare collection of Osgood and Kittredge relics and married Hannah Hodges from Salem in 1819. I am not familiar with the later movements of the children. One son, Dr. Joseph (7) was at Harvard in 1850; two others took up the treatment of the insane; one sister married Dr. Choate of the Taunton Hospital. Madam Flint of High street, in a short sojourn in Chicago, once met a very fine, hospitable Dr. Kittredge of this group, who had a house full of the old relics and the same open heart and hand as those who lived here. We all knew best the two ladies so long associated in all that made for the welfare of the community in which they lived. They started, if they did not accomplish the whole movement that placed our first resting-place for the dead in order, after years of neglect and poison ivy and bramble. One who was delicate in health managed the big farm from her chamber with the skill of a man; her sister was the one who stood at the open door for all needs, social and friendly. They shared the beautiful art of their treasures freely with all who asked. One attraction I doubt if either ever heard of. I often met friends from Andover in my wanderings who were young lads in the North Parish and recalled these friends of their mothers, with warm affection. I reckon there was a place for the young who could tell us much of the good times they had at that fireside. They always, when they heard of Andover names, soon got round to the Kittredge ladies.

Miss Sarah's voice, a fine contralto, was lent freely to all good service in many ways. The Historical Society, the Village Improvement and much more probably (I am a comparative stranger to their home life), these will miss her lending hand. Each friend will recall some different service. The day that she was carried to her last sleep here was the anniversary of the birth of her dear friend, Miss Mary Peabody, dec., to whom her voice was a joy at the Christ Church service here. Years ago I was in Big Rapids when Rev. Anna Shaw started on her career; a long panorama of her service to her times I should like to see unrolled beside one of the two who made that Andover home so much to their community. Such a home life gives our brothers, fathers, sons something to work for, to fight for, to look back to in the long homesickness of camp life that may be the portion of this generation. It is not wealth in the home but heart cheer, we need for our boys. I hope among the many lads they have taught to love Andover among their kin, there will be one who will come and keep the house of treasure warm another generation and continue the memories it has sheltered for 165 long years.

Glenwood

"It certainly does make cooking easy"

Sooner or Later you'll have one

Glenwoods are Brim Full of Good Things

The Glenwood Balanced Baking Damper is far ahead of any other—it is as positive as the turning of a railroad switch—open to start the fire, closed to bake—just this one damper for kindling or baking and best of all, it can't warp or stick.

The Glenwood Revolving Coal Grate is easy to shake at all times, and simply fine for removing clinkers. It is triangular in shape, with three different sides for wear.

The Ash Pan rests on a roller bearing frame—just open door and it rolls out at the slightest touch, neat and clean.

The Glenwood Shelf Under Oven Door is not stationary—it automatically raises and lowers as oven door is opened or closed. It is always level with oven bottom—a great convenience when basting meats or removing food.

The Glenwood Sectional Top is interchangeable—cross pieces can not warp—a wash boiler can be placed at the back as well as in front for quick heating, leaving the front holes free for cooking.

Glenwood Iron is smooth and perfect—the easiest of any to clean—a real delight to the most exacting housekeeper. Get one and you'll be glad ever after.

Paragon Park and Palm Garden

Paragon Park and its famous Palm Garden has started off its season with promise of greater popularity than ever. The reason is plain, for never has this resort offered more alluring attractions than those provided by Manager Dodge this season. Nothing but the highest praise on all sides is heard for the Cabaret this season in the Palm Garden. Instead of a small company of cabaret entertainers as in former years, the cabaret contingent this summer numbers no less than sixty, including both performers and the musicians.

The Dances part of the Palm Garden is more popular than ever this season. After 9.30 the regular band is augmented to make a special novelty band of twenty pieces to provide music for the dancers.

Dare Devil Dela is an astonishing feature of the open air circus with his thrilling dive from a height of 104 feet into a shallow tank of water only three feet wide and four feet deep.

Among the many new features none attracts so much attention as the Monkey Mansion in the Zoo with "Villa", one of the largest baboons in captivity. Fireworks are a special feature Wednesday and Saturday nights and a grand Italian illumination on Sunday evenings.

Composition of the Carrot

Carrots contain a large amount of water, 86 per cent. Their most distinguished dietetical substance is sugar, of which they possess nearly 64 per cent. Starch is also found in small quantities, with a small portion of albumen. The ancients used the seed both of the wild and cultivated carrot as an internal medicine against the bite of serpents; they also gave it to animals that had been stung by them.

The Coconut's Three Eyes

Who can tell why the coconut has three eyes? Luther Burbank explains it this way:

Coconuts generally grow at the edge of the sea or rivers. The nuts are surrounded with a thick husk with a waterproof covering so that when they drop into the water they will float. In floating, the three eyes are always on top. Once in the water nature gets busy. From one of the eyes there comes a shoot which develops broad leaves like sails. The wind catches the sails and wafts the coconut on a journey some, times many miles long. As it sails, the other two eyes develop roots, which at first grow among the fibres of the woody husk.

In good season, the coconut is swept upon another shore, perhaps on another island. The roots imbed themselves in the soft earth, the sail becomes the trunk, and a coconut palm is growing where none grew before.

BASEBALL*Punchard Defeated Reading

On last Friday afternoon the local high school nine journeyed to Reading where they defeated the high school team of that town by the score of 3-2 in a fast and interesting game. McNally pitched for Punchard and he twirled a good game, allowing the Reading batters only three scattered hits. He would have scored a shutout had he received better support.

For Punchard, McNally, Lawson and Cronin starred while for Reading Gibbons, Dane, and Thornton excelled.

TO THE HOME FOLKS FROM CHICAGO

I have just returned from the enjoyment of the hospitality which only a Chicago club could possibly extend. For two days the rain has fallen steadily—a genuine "downpour," and the preliminary opportunity to see Chicago which some of the first comers to the city had anticipated, has been realized with much difficulty.

But sight-seeing in Chicago on Convention week does not contemplate the usual "sights" but the unusual; and all of the latter are here. As I write, the big Suffrage parade is passing along Michigan avenue, a show of umbrellas, tops, yellow sashes, bedraggled skirts, and occasionally a face. The rain certainly changed the effect of the clothing display but it apparently had little effect upon the spirits of the wearers.

Recalling the difficulty I had in becoming at all familiar with the different forms of insanity that had to be considered in State work, I am now wondering how I overlooked the most violent kind I have ever seen, which might be called "violent politeness."

All along this wonderful Michigan avenue may be found thousands of people suffering from this terrible disease and it wouldn't seem to be possible for some of them ever to recover. Congress Hotel has a million cases (more or less) and many are violent if not dangerous. The violent cases yell and howl at every sign of a cowboy hat or a set of false teeth, and both are much in evidence.

Political parades with actually hundreds of marchers, and in one case with three bands, march through the hotel corridors fill the lobby, make a lot of noise, and don't change a vote; but, Oh, what a good time the participants do think they are having!

Speaking of parades recalls the first one which came on Monday night when it overflowed into the street and made quite an imposing affair with its several bands and hundreds of marchers, all attempting to make Chicago visitors think that Senator Sherman, the "favorite son" of Illinois, looks like Lincoln. Standing on the sidewalk as it passed, two young Chicago ladies were heard to query what it was all about. The band was playing "Marching through Georgia" over and over again; "Well," finally said one of the young ladies, "I don't know what the parade is all about but I do love to hear a brass band play the national anthem."

The big Republican setting is in the Congress; the Progressives are at the Auditorium; connecting the two hotels is a tunnel under the street, and as it is easy to turn to the right when you ought to go to the left when leaving the wash-room, it is not difficult to appreciate the plight of the poor fellow who bore as his distinguishing mark a big card, "We want Teddy," but who really needed a more intimate and accurate guide, because he couldn't find the room in the Congress which he had occupied for a day at the Auditorium. No one can foresee the potentialities of that underground connection between the headquarters and the home of the G.O.P. delegates.

The Convention has opened today with 13,000 people sharing in its wonderful setting. About two hundred persons fill the centre of things as directors of the affair, a thousand delegates do the voting, a thousand more men are ready as alternates, and the rest of the big gathering are side-line players. These latter are the only ones who know either what is to be done or what ought to be done, and alas! no two of them agree on either phase.

Massachusetts has reason to be very proud of her active favorite son and his hold upon the people who are here from all sections of the nation. The wires will probably tell the story, long before this is in type, as to what his standing in the voting is, but Senator Weeks' place in the affections of men from everywhere is certainly a high one, whatever the vote may show.

With Senator Lodge the chairman of the committee on resolutions, with Senator Weeks the best beloved candidate of all who seek the nomination, and with former Senator Crane the most sought-for man in the big headquarters as the leader to advise, to direct, to plan, and to execute, certainly old Massachusetts is still a shaper of the Nation's destinies.

Who will be nominated? A Republican who can unite the Republican party and restore Republican rule in the Nation.

Talitha Cumi Home

The gathering of those interested in permanently endowing the Talitha Cumi Home in Jamaica Plain apparently was not greatly affected by the cold, wet drizzle of Thursday. A goodly audience of ladies gathered, whose sympathy and slight knowledge of the Christlike work that is being carried on under the leadership of Dr. Julia Morton Plummer was deepened with every moment they listened to the convincing story. Dr. Plummer was prevented by illness from coming, to the sorrow and disappointment of all, but Mr. Bigelow very appropriately introduced her two representatives who spoke from her point of view and with much of her spirit. As one of them said: "Dr. Plummer was the flame and we each take our little light from her flame."

Miss Emerson, chairman of the board of directors, said they felt sure of finding a cordial response in Andover, for four years ago when their beautiful new home was being erected in Jamaica Plain, Andover asked to furnish a room, and it was named the Andover room. It is one of the brightest, sunniest rooms in the house, next to Dr. Plummer's, and is looked upon as a promotion room—the girls are taught that it calls for order, neatness, and a striving for improvement, from every occupant; so the girls look upon it as a room to be won by effort. The room costs four hundred dollars a year to support it.

The New England Moral Reform Society which supports Talitha Cumi was founded eighty years ago, by a little band of brave women who were ahead of their time. They were remonstrated with by their ministers and ostracized by their friends and neighbors, but today they have the cordial support of all who love their fellowmen. Social workers are grappling today with the problem they have been handling for eighty years, because it is still a most serious problem. Six of the most skillful physicians and surgeons in Boston give their services two months each, and their legal adviser is the son—a worthy successor to his father—of the late John D. Long.

Rev. H. U. Monro of North Andover made a strong appeal for funds. Everybody emptied their pocketbook and took a pledge card home with them to add more during the year. During the collection Mrs. Moore's sympathetic voice deepened the impression made by the speakers, as she sang:

"Oh, dearly has He loved,
And we must try His works to do."
Besides Andover ladies there were many others present from surrounding towns.

Extension of Art Exhibition

Miss Pooke's paintings will remain on exhibition at the John-Esther gallery during the coming week. About 150 people visited the gallery on Commencement Day. The hours of opening for the week are from 2 until 5 o'clock on the afternoons of Wednesday and Saturday.

Mothers' Club Election

The Andover Mothers' Club held their annual business meeting with election of officers, Wednesday afternoon, in the Samuel Jackson school. The report of the fair showed a net profit of $72.23. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. James Feeney; first vice-president, Mrs. David Lindsay; second vice-president, Mrs. Otis Keith; secretary, Mrs. John Halph; treasurer, Mrs. Carl Elander; directors: Mrs. Charles Buchan, chairman, Mrs. Walter Buxton, and Mrs. Paul Simeone; auditor, Mrs. William Brown. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Keith, chairman, Mrs. George Holt, and Mrs. Fallon.

A basket picnic will be held at the home of Mrs. Alex Crockett, Friday, July 7, at 2 o'clock.

Senior Play Tonight

The Senior class of Pynchard will present the two-act comedy entitled, "The Rebellion of Mrs. Barclay," this evening in the town hall at 8 o'clock. The cast has been working for some time under the competent coaching of Principal N. C. Hamblin and an exceedingly fine production is looked for. Tickets for the play may be secured at the door at 25 cents. An additional fee of 25 cents will be charged to those taking part in the dancing which will follow the play.

The cast of characters is as follows:
Mortec Barclay Eldred W. Larkin
Roger Stuart, a neighbor Gus Brown
Dennis O'Hara Joseph McNally
Ethel Barclay, Mortec's wife Gertrude Berry
Ruth Carter, Ethel's sister Ann Leslie
Mrs. Brown, Mortec's sister Ruth Abbott Cora, her daughter Gladys Ralph Elele Stuart, Roger's sister Lillian McCarty
Mary Ann O'Connor Annie Harnedy

Lowell Preparedness Day, June 14

All roads lead to Lowell, Wednesday, June 14. The city has planned a Preparedness Parade and already 20,000 volunteers in various organizations, and twenty-five bands of music, have been secured which will produce the greatest parade ever held in Lowell.

The merchants of the city will co-operate by conducting Special Preparedness Sales and will offer extraordinary bargains in all departments. The stores of Lowell at the present time are well stocked with new and seasonal merchandise and anyone can spend a profitable day, as well as be provided with a great deal of enjoyment and pleasure by taking part in the Preparedness Day celebration, Wednesday, June 14.

Dies Suddenly In Augusta

George Abbott Marland only son of Mrs. Marland and the late Major Wm. Marland, died suddenly June 8 in Augusta, Ga., where he had gone from his home in Columbus, Ga., to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

SCHOOL NURSE ENDORSED

Offers of Public Health Association to Provide Nurse for Schools Approved. Board not Committed to Scheme

At the meeting of the school committee held Tuesday evening, the question of a school nurse was discussed at length and the board voted to approve the proposition of the Andover Public Health Association in providing a nurse for the schools. The vote of approval does not commit the board in any way and the nurse will be hired as an experiment to the close of the year, December 31. The financing will be borne by the Health Association with the exception of $50, which was voted by the school board and this money will be paid as part salary through the town treasury. Should the experiment prove successful and the school committee feel that the citizen believe a nurse necessary, an appropriation will be asked for at the next town meeting. The nurse will be selected by the Public Health Association, but will be under the jurisdiction of the school committee.

Janitors were elected as follows at the same salaries as last year:

Punchard High and Central schools, Herbert L. White.
Indian Ridge, James A. Eaton.
Bradley, James McGhie.
Richardson, William McEwan.
West Centre, Granville K. Cutler.
North, John Crowley.
Bailey, William Flint.
Osgood, George Spickler.

Miss Georgianna Lovejoy was engaged for next year as clerk to the superintendent. The graduation exercises of the grammar grades will be Thursday afternoon, June 22, and the address will be by Principal Alfred E. Stearns, a member of the board, and the diplomas will be presented by John C. Angus, chairman.

The budget for the month was approved for payment as follows:

General expenses: School committee clerk, telephone, printing, $51.54; superintendent of schools, salary, $201.90; office and miscellaneous expenses, $30.21.

Expenses of instruction: Supervisors, salaries, $136.84; travelling expenses, $7.50; teachers: High school, $588.84; elementary, $2301.05; text books: High school, $2.50; elementary, $1.26; supplies: High school, $72.86; elementary, $106.91.

Expenses of operation: Janitors, High school, $38.45; elementary, $202.90; miscellaneous, High school, $35.62; elementary, $91.99.

Maintenance: Repairs: High school, $3; elementary, $29.25.

Auxiliary agencies: Health, $95; transportation, $175.20.

Miscellaneous expenses: Tuition, $25.00; sundries, $110.75.

Outlays: New equipment, $1.10.

Total, $4187.17.

Previously expended, $18,291.70; total expenditures, $22,478.87. Balance unexpended, $24,935.67.

OBITUARIES

GEORGE GILLESPIE

George Gillespie, a well known resident of this town, died Tuesday at the family home, 324 North Main street, aged thirty-four years. He is survived by his father, a brother and a sister.

The funeral was held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services were conducted by Rev. F. A. Wilson, pastor of the Free Congregational church. Burial took place in the family lot in West Parish cemetery.

FRED ELLIS

Fred Ellis, aged seventy-five years, died at the Andover Town Farm last Saturday afternoon after a long illness. He leaves no immediate relatives.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services were conducted by Rev. William E. Lombard, pastor of the Baptist church. Burial took place in Spring Grove cemetery.

MRS. AUGUSTA THOMPSON

The funeral of Mrs. Augusta Carnella (Symonds) Thompson, wife of Andrew Thompson, who died Sunday, was held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services were conducted at the late home, 105 Elm street, by Rev. E. Victor Bigelow and Rev. Frank R. Shipman, who paid tribute to the life of useful christian service of the deceased, who being born in Middleton in 1852, came to Andover twenty-five years ago, where she endeared herself to a large circle of friends. During the services Mrs. James May sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Saved by Grace".

Four nephews acted as pall bearers: Charles F. Emerson, John Symonds, Bertram Stiles, and Berton Symonds. Besides her husband and daughter, Mrs. Thompson leaves to mourn her loss one sister, Mrs. Olive Peabody; two brothers, Henry and Flint Symonds; and eleven nieces and nephews. The bier was surrounded by beautiful flowers from sorrowing relatives and friends. Burial took place in the family lot in Ridgewood cemetery, North Andover.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks to the many kind friends who by their many deeds of thoughtfulness and kindness helped us through our recent sorrow and bereavement; also, for the many beautiful floral tributes and other expressions of sympathy.

Signed
Andrew Thompson and Family

EXETER WINS BIG GAME

For the Fourth Successive Year the Red and Grey Triumphs Over the White and Blue

For the fourth successive year the Phillips Andover baseball team went down to defeat at the hands of the Phillips Exeter Academy team, but to the credit of the losers it fairly can be said that they put up one of the best fights ever seen in one of these games and were only beaten by what is called in baseball parlance "bad breaks in the game". This is said without taking any credit of the victory from Exeter, for they played excellent ball. Their team was evenly balanced and the support given their pitcher was faultless except in one instance, when Andover was allowed to score. Exeter's runs were also made through misplays by Andover men, but outside of these slip-ups both teams played wonderful ball.
Crane and Captain Faherty, distinguished themselves in the field by making some sensational catches, while the one-handed catch of a liner by Atha, Exeter's second baseman, was the best contribution from the red and gray team.

The game was played on Brothers Field on last Saturday afternoon, before a crowd much smaller than has been seen here in former years. The teams were well supported by the students of the respective schools, and the songs and cheering were good. The Andover Brass Band furnished music for the Andover side, after leading the students on the field from the Archaeology building.

The game started promptly at 2.30, Exeter going to bat. Neither side scored until the fourth inning, when Andover succeeded in bringing across the first run after two men were out.
Captain Faherty made a clean hit to center and then stole second. Wilson let a slow grounder to Atha who let the ball roll through his legs, Faherty scoring.

Exeter made her first run in the sixth inning when Martin started off with a single to center. White laid a clean bunt down the first base line and Martin went to third on the throw to get White at first. Martin scored when Warren let a ball pass him, White going to third.
O'Doherty flied to Faherty and the latter threw to Warren who tagged White sliding into home. This was one of the best throws ever seen on Brothers Field and brought forth much applause from both sides of the field.

No more scoring was done until the eighth inning when Exeter scored its last and deciding run of the game.
Atha was safe when Brennan threw high to first, but on the next play he was caught trying to steal second, Boyd taking the throw from Warren. Martin flied to Faherty. White hit to left field and when Crane fumbled the ball White went to second. O'Doherty hit to Boyd who threw wild to Hazard, allowing White to score. O'Doherty went to second on the error. Mac-Namara beat out an infield fly and stole second. Cole was passed, but Harvey flied to Faherty for the last out.

COMMENCEMENT MUSIC

As prelude at the service in the chapel on Sunday morning, Mr. Pfatfeicher will play some variations on the choral "Now thank we all our God." The choir will sing the Sanctus from Gounod's "St. Cecilia Mass."

Before the Baccalaureate service at 3.30 in the afternoon, Mr. Pfatfeicher will play some variations on the tune to which the school hymn is sung—Duke Street. The choir will sing the "Domine Salvam Fac" and the "Gloria in Excelsis" from Gounod's "Missa des Orpheonistes."

On Tuesday evening, June 13, at 8 o'clock, in the chapel, the Choral Society assisted by the choir of the school will sing Robert Schumann's "The Pilgrimage of the Rose." This is undoubtedly the most melodious work the choral society has rendered and is seldom sung in America. The soloists will be Mrs. F. G. Moore, Miss H. Newman,
Miss R. Mitchell of Andover and Mr.
Hackett and Mr. Kidder of Boston.
It is ardently hoped that Andover will support the work of the society by a large attendance.

On Thursday evening, June 15, at 8 o'clock in the chapel, Mr. Edwin Latthrope Baker and Mr. Pfatfeicher will give a joint recital, Mr. Baker playing piano, Mr. Pfatfeicher organ. Mr.
Baker will play compositions by Dvorak, Mendelssohn and Fabisch-Baker; Mr.
Pfatfeicher will play the 1st organ sonata of Mendelssohn, the Overture to a Midsummer Night's Dream, Mendelssohn, and the Scherzo from Widor's IVth Symphony.

Boy Scout Notes

The Boy Scout work locally has grown to such an extent that four troops of Scouts have been formed. The work was started with one troop two months ago. Now there are two troops of 24 each and two troops of 18 each. The older boys are formed in troops by themselves, thus making the work more interesting to this group.

The officers of the troops are as follows: Senior inter-troop patrol leader, Carson; senior patrol leader, Troop I,
Swenson; patrol leader, Hatch, Troop II;
Senior patrol leader, H. Bigelow;
patrol leader, W. Dalton. Troop III:
Senior patrol leader, Brigham; patrol leaders, Allen and Wade. Troop IV:
Senior patrol leader, Buttrick; patrol leaders, Partridge and Brewster. The meeting nights are as follows: Troop I, Tuesday evening at 7.15; Troop II,
Monday; Troop III, Thursday; Troop IV, Wednesday. The meetings have been very well attended and much enthusiasm is being manifested. By the new arrangement the Scout Executive hopes that more personal attention can be given each Scout.

This Saturday a short hike will be taken by the combined troops.
The local charter for the local council has arrived and has been placed in the local headquarters, the lower town hall.
The charter is very attractively arranged with the various insignia as a border.
A picture taken of all the Scouts with their troop and American flags, their bugle and drum corps of twelve pieces, and the first aid corps, has been placed in the window of the Metropolitan.
Many interested people have stopped to look at it.

Rifle Club Meeting

The Andover Rifle club, which organized during the past week, held a meeting in Dr. H. F. Holt's rooms in the Carter block on Monday evening.
The charter was closed with a membership of 22.

Routine business followed, and formal application will be made to the National Rifle association for a charter.
The members are as follows:
I. E. Steadman, Alfred J. Lundgren,
Franklin H. Stacey, Dr. W. H. Simpson,
James H. Morris, Harry Sellars,
Frank Michelson, Arthur Bliss, Jr.,
Dr. Percy J. Look, Ralph W. Coleman,
William H. Foster, Theodore L. Dodge,
J. Walter Brown, Dr. Hiland F. Hilt,
Floyd W. Eastman, Jesse S. Billington,
Theodore Tyler, Walter H. Thompson,
Charles A. Hill, David L. Coutts, Harold
S. Jackson, Clifford E. Marshall, Harold Saunders.

Application blanks have been issued and all those who desire to join the club are requested to obtain these from the members of the organization. It is expected that the rifles will arrive in about two weeks and practice will begin on the Frye Village range.

JUNE WEDDINGS

LOWD-DEAN

A very pretty home wedding took place at the home of J. Judson Dean at 8 Locke street on Friday evening at 6.30 o'clock when his daughter Olive Wanda was united in wedlock to Dana Joseph Lowd, son of Mr. and Mrs.
Joseph H. Lowd of Bartlett street.

The officiating clergyman was Rev.
Harry S. Lowd of East Walpole, a brother of the bridegroom, the ceremony being performed while the couple stood under a beautiful arch of laurel and Killarney roses. The double ring service was used.

Prior to the bridal march, Frederic G. Moore rendered a piano selection from Lohengrin, and later played Lohengrin's wedding march to the strains of which the bridal party entered. The bride wore an exquisite gown of white pussy willow tulle with a tulle train and a renaissance lace veil, and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and roses.

The maid of honor was Miss Gladys Dean, a sister of the bride, who wore a dress of yellow tulle trimmed with silver lace and yellow silk tulle, and she carried yellow tea roses. The bridegroom was attended by William Judson Dean, a brother of the bride.

Miss Dorothy Foster was flower girl and she wore a white net dress trimmed with pink roses and pink ribbon. She carried a basket of sweetheart roses.

Miss Nancy Fanning of Whitestone, N. Y., a cousin of the bride was train bearer and wore a dress of white china silk trimmed with blue and pink rosebuds and she carried a corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses.

The ushers were Miss Lucretia Lowe, Elizabeth Johnson, and Elizabeth
Abbott; Messrs. William Holden, J.
Everett Collins and James Dean.

The ceremony was witnessed by the immediate relatives of the contracting parties and the young ladies of a club of which the bride was a member, and the former business associates of the bridegroom from the Merrimack Insurance Company office.

J. H. Playdon had charge of the floral decorations while McDonald Weber and Company of Boston catered.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Lowd are very well known among the younger set of the town and they will have the good wishes of a host of friends in their wedded life.

The young couple left on a wedding tour which was spent in Maine, and are now at home at 73 Chestnut street.

MORRISON-WILDES

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene
L. Wildes, Main street, South Hamilton, was the scene Saturday evening, of a very pretty home wedding, when their daughter, Mildred Fern Wildes, a teacher of the town and member of the class of 1911, Salem Normal school, became the bride of Alexander Morris-son, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L.
Morrison of Elm street. The marriage ceremony took place in the presence of the members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends, Rev.
Frederick M. Cutler, pastor of the Congregational church of Wenham, officiating. Among those present was Mrs.
Christina Morrison, grandmother of the groom, eighty-three years of age.

Miss Florence Schaller of South Hamilton was the maid of honor and Philip G. Morrison, brother of the groom, was the best man. Little Priscilla Wildes of Malden, niece of the bride, was the flower girl and looked very dainty in her gown of white net over green, bearing her basket of pink roses and asparagus fern.

The bride's dress was of ivory satin with chantilly lace and pearl trimmings and clusters of orange blossoms, which flowers also held her lace-edge tulle veil.
She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor was gowning in Nile green messaline with rose and metallic lace trimmings, her bouquet being of pink roses.

The ushers were Elton E. Wildes of Malden, brother of the bride, Frederick H. Morrison of New York, brother of the groom and Dr. Malcolm B. McFernen. Miss Marjorie A. Hill of Wenham, niece of the bride, played the wedding march from Lohengrin, as the

More Bird Homes

To the Editor:

Just a line to urge nature lovers to put up more bird boxes. Many persons believe it is too late in the season but that is not necessarily so. Some birds are nesting now but many others have not yet begun. As the season is very backward this year they are nesting a little later than usual. Bluebirds, Tree Swallows, Chickadees, Wrens and Flickers often raise two or even three broods during the same season if suitable nesting sites are to be had. So we need not fear that the time we spend in erecting bird homes will be wasted. Put up the boxes and the birds will do the rest. The Massachusetts Fish and Game Protective Association is working for the conservation of our native birds and animals and will be glad to answer questions relative to them and their protection.

NEWS OF ANDOVER SUBURBS

BALLARDVALE

Last Thursday a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Windle.

Miss Katherine Trow of Somerville spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Trow, River street.

A delegation of local Good Templars attended the Union meeting of Longfellow Lodge Haverhill, Wednesday evening.

Ribbon drill by the children will be one of the many features at the "Lawn Party" to be held Saturday afternoon, June 17 on Willis B. Hodgkins lawn.

Tickets are selling rapidly for the lawn party to be held June 17 under the auspices of the Ballard Vale Improvement society. Let every one buy a tag and help along the good cause.

There will be a meeting of the pastoral committee at the Congregational church vestry on Thursday evening, after the prayer meeting. All members of the committee are urged to be present.

Children's Sunday will be observed at the local Congregational church on Sunday forenoon by special services. The presentation of bibles to the children will be one of the pleasant features of the day.

A delegation of local Good Templars attended the session of Merrimack Valley district lodge held in Bugbee Hall, Lawrence last Saturday afternoon and evening. Business of special importance came before the meeting. There were fourteen candidates who took the degree.

There was a special Good of the Order Monday evening at the meeting of Ballard Vale Lodge No. 105. There was a class initiation. Ice cream and cake were served. The Good of the Order was in charge of Mrs. Nelson Townsend and consisted of "A Hunting Party" which called forth lots of fun and a jolly good time generally. First prize was awarded to Mrs. Harry Nason; second prize, to Mrs. Louis Kibbee; third prize, Mr. Benjamin Summers.

Surprise Party

A surprise party was held last Saturday night at the home of Miss Cora Abbott when Miss Abbott was presented with a manicure set by many of her friends. The presentation speech was made by Miss Marion Schneider. A pleasant evening was spent, the following entertaining with piano selections singing and dancing. Josephine Brady Florence Schneider, James Nichol, Mary York, William Rennie, Peter Carson, Isabelle Abbott, Marion Schneider and John Hurley. Among those present were: Hattie Kibbee, Annie Kibbee, Mary York, Florence Schneider, Marion Schneider, Isabelle Abbott, Cora Abbott Josephine Brady, Catherine Daly, Nellie McLeish, Ivy Hackney, William Rennie, John Hurley, Peter Carson, John Harnady, Frank Nichol, James Nichol, Fred Wrigley, Harry Wrigley, Kenneth Sweeney, Kenneth Kibbee, George Killacky, George Markey.

WEST PARISH

Don't forget the food sale in the Ames butter store this afternoon, by the ladies of the West church.

Mrs. William B. Corliss and little daughter, Wilma Frances, are visiting relatives and friends in Richford, Vt.

Mrs. Ida Trow has returned to her home in Watertown after renewing old acquaintances in the parish for a few days.

It is very pleasing to the people in the Bailey district to see the work being done on the roads there, and also on the River road.

Before going to her new home in Abington, Mrs. James Marshall is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Ward.

Mrs. Abalino Cutler, who has been visiting her son, Granville K. Cutler of Lowell street, is at present visiting her son, Nathan Cutler, principal of the Norwood High School.

Grange News

At the Grange meeting next Tuesday evening the lecture hour will be in charge of Mrs. Frank Foster and Mrs. George L. Averill. It will be observed as "Birds' Night", and an illustrated talk on birds will be given by Walter R. Putney, superintendent of schools in Ashland. Mr. Putney will tell of the good work the birds do, especially to the farmers in destroying so many pests than ruin the vegetables. It is his special request that as many school children as can, will attend this meeting. Twenty-three Andover Grangers attended the North Andover Grange Tuesday evening when Haverhill Grange furnished the entertainment.

Trolley Trips

At the beginning of each summer season, the Bay State Street Railway Company presents its "Trolley Trips" booklet to the riding public of Eastern New England. Anticipating visitors to this vacation land during the approaching warm months, and also for the benefit of the local public who will be seeking pleasure and recreation, an unusually attractive and informative folder has just been issued, with several new features.

Many of the famous trolley trips that have become so popular with vacationists are outlined, careful directions being given. The New Englander faced with the problem of entertaining guests this summer will find valuable suggestions among these. A map in colors is to be found in the folder, which shows distinctly the through-interurban and suburban routes of the system. From this map, you can determine what changes of cars are necessary for any trip you care to plan.

It is expected that there will be a very heavy demand for this folder. It is to be obtained free at the Passenger Department of the Bay State Street Railway, at 15 Milk Street, Boston, or at the offices of the local Superintendents of the railway.

ABBOTT VILLAGE

Miss Annie Craig of Pearson street is ill with blood poisoning.

Miss Catherine Starr of Hillside spent the week with relatives in Jamaica Plain.

Mrs. William McDermitt is ill at her home on Brechin Terrace with the gripe.

Mrs. Andrew McNicoll and daughter Margaret visited friends in the village this week.

Alexander Anderson of Brechin Terrace has left the employ of the Smith & Dove Company.

Mrs. John Nolan and daughters Eliza and Margaret visited friends in North Grafton at the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCloughlin of Lowell spent the week end at the home of Mrs. William McDermitt of Brechin Terrace.

Mrs. Alex Skea and daughter Ella of Methuen visited at the home of Mrs. Robert Valentine on Brechin Terrace Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Black of Beverly are visiting at the home of Mrs. Black's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Nicoll of Shawsheen Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Valentine of Essex street spent the week end in Jamaica Plain at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Russell.

The Andover eleven defeated Lawrence last week with only three wickets down, the bowling of Black and Fettes being too good for the visitors.

The Cricket Club will play a team of veterans tomorrow on the local ground. William Haddon is captain of the veterans and has secured a strong side.

There will be a meeting of the Andover United Football club Monday evening in the village hall. Committee will be elected to prepare for the coming season. A team will be selected to represent the club in the five-side competition next week in the Cricket Club field day.

Juvenile Good Templars

The Juvenile Templars held a regular meeting Monday evening. Chief Templar William Nicoll presided with the new officers at their stations.

Two candidates were initiated, and the routine business completed with dispatch. A social hour followed in which a peanut hunt was held. Mary Keith and Jennie McLeish found the most in the order named and received prizes.

A committee of three was appointed to write a letter of sympathy and cheer to brother Thomas Lake who is in the Boston Hospital. John Caldwell, John Stewart and William Nicoll comprise the committee.

John Caldwell, William Nicoll, Olive Snyder, Margaret Low and Lois Buick took part in the Good of the Order entertainment.

A union social will be held in Methuen on the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday, June 21 and 22, this is open to the public.

Punchard High Clashes with Exeter High Saturday

The Punchard High School baseball nine will face the Exeter High School team at Exeter tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Punchard has a veteran team and seven of the men that played against Exeter last year will face the New Hampshire boys tomorrow.

The locals have won eight and lost two games this season. Another game resulted in a tie. Many of the contests have been won by the heavy hitting of the nine. Most of the men are batting above .300 and a few are very close to the .400 mark, so the Exeter twirlers will have to work hard to keep the hits scattered. The team as a whole has come along rapidly under the supervision of Coach Lovely and Captain Gus Brown, and is one of the strongest aggregations ever turned out by the local high school.

Not much is known relative to the strength of Exeter, but from all reports they have a fairly good team.

Punchard's record for the season is as follows:

April 19	Punchard	15	Alumni	7
April 21	Punchard	13	Wakefield	10
April 25	Punchard	4	Lawrence	4
May 9	Punchard	12	Wakefield	4
May 12	Punchard	11	Pinkerton	21
May 19	Punchard	7	Reading	8
May 20	Punchard	7	Danvers	5
May 26	Punchard	13	Pinkerton	6
May 31	Punchard	16	Methuen	15
June 2	Punchard	3	Reading	2
June 3	Punchard	4	Danvers	3

Punchard Baseball Notes

There are but two more games on the schedule, the one with Exeter tomorrow and one with Stoneham next Tuesday. A game may be arranged with Methuen some time next week, as one of the games with the latter team had to be canceled on account of rain. The game scheduled with Lawrence on last Tuesday was canceled because Lawrence could not play at Riverside Park owing to the fact that two other teams were playing at that place.

Friday Evening Musical Club

The Friday Evening Musical Club met at the home of Miss Marion Hill on Lupin road on last Friday evening. An excellent program was carried out and games were played and refreshments were served.

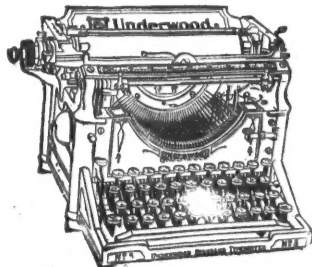

The program was as follows:

Natural History Society Outing

The Andover Natural History Society held an enjoyable outing at Great Meadow, just south of Prospect Hill, on last Friday afternoon, the weather being ideal for the trip, which was made in Emerson's barge. Many aquatic plants now in season were found, including the beautiful arethusa, pitcher plant, buck bean, wild iris, ragwort, blue flag, and many others. Basket lunch was served in the vicinity of the old Indian stockade and enjoyed by the following party: Rev. E. Victor Bigelow, Mrs. W. G. Goldsmith, William Goldsmith, Miss Clara A. Putnam, Mrs. Anna Paddock, Mrs. Lyster, Miss Davies, Mrs. Howard, Mrs. Frank M. Foster, Jonathan E. Holt, Omar P. Chase, Mrs. Omar P. Chase, Mrs. Robert Price, Miss Eloise Price.

heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him."

"All the best stories in the world," he said, "are the stories of some great search, some grand adventure—the search after the Holy Grail, or the Golden Fleece; the search after the beauty of Helen, or for the pot of gold beneath the rainbow; the search of Don Quixote for adventure, or of Christian for the Holy City. Still today, the same tendency of the human heart is shown, and in the 'movies' the pictures most popular are those of an adventurous pursuit of some one ever fleeing before those that follow after."

"These stories are popular because they are true to life. We all start off in search of something, some pearl of great price, which we believe will be for us perfect happiness. We start off in life in that grand adventure, and we feel, all of us, the same tendency in youth to believe that if we can but find this thing that we seek we shall be happy forever."

"But as we look at life we see that hosts of people seem to have missed the thing which they are after. If we go down into the poorer districts of the city and see the toilers coming home from their hard day's work, and look upon the expressions in their faces; if we go up into the circles of ease and wealth, and penetrate into those quiet sanctuaries where bridge is played without conversation intervening to destroy the mysteries of the next play, we shall find, in both instances that the look on the faces of great hosts is that of supreme dissatisfaction and disappointment."

"Tens of thousands of those who, like you today, start off to seek the pearl of great price are disappointed in life—missing the thing that they are after—and are to spend the latter years of their lives simply in putting in time, in killing ennui, and trying to keep the days out till death comes to extinguish the unsatisfactory flame of life."

"Now, these stories are all agreed upon three things about this great search. First, that it is hard to find this thing that all the world is seeking—that it is a strait and narrow way, rather than a broad and easy way, upon which one must find it. Second, that when it is found, it is an easy and simple thing, not complicated or difficult, but something very plain and simple which has to be found. And third, that when it has been achieved, the result is a peace so great that no words can possibly express it—the peace that passeth all understanding, which ear hath not heard nor eye seen, which hath not entered into the heart of man to conceive."

"There are three things necessary to discovering this great secret of life. First, that one should find one's self and what one likes. It seems an easy thing to know what you like, but it is really one of the most difficult things to find what you like. Most people go through the world pretending to like the things that are liked in their set. Here is a girl, for instance, who, if the truth be told, knows absolutely nothing and cares absolutely nothing either about football or baseball, yet it is supposed in her set to be something beyond expression delightful to have an invitation to go to one of the big games. She must go—she must be with the crowd—she must exclaim in superlatives all the time, being careful to see that she does not exclaim at the wrong time—she must, on no account, give any impression that she knows absolutely nothing and cares absolutely nothing about the game, but is only interested in the crowd and in the accessories. Or, here is a girl that cares nothing about music or pictures, but when she is with the crowd she must exclaim with them in the same extravagant terms of laudation, not knowing that she is baring away her soul—is giving away the most precious thing about her, her own sincerity. Far rather humbly to try to learn why other people like these things, frankly to state one's own ignorance, frankly to try to understand other people's appreciation, than thus early in life to barter away one's own very soul."

"And, secondly, one must find out what the age is in which one lives, and what it needs. There are hosts of people today who think they are still living in the nineteenth century. They do not know that they are living in a new century, with new needs and new aims and new conditions—the twentieth century. There are hosts of men who think they are still living in an age in which a man can say, 'I run my own business and it is nobody's business how I run it,' not knowing that that was the condition of things in the nineteenth century, that the twentieth century has changed it all. There are hosts of men and women who have not appreciated the fact that all the conditions of life change from generation to generation, and each young man or woman must try to learn the age in which he or she lives, and try to become a citizen of it. Was it not Marie Antoinette, who on hearing that the crowds in Paris were dying for want of bread said, 'Why cannot they eat cake?' And something like that is the feeling of those who think they are living in a different age in mind from that in which they really do."

"And third, you must find what your gift is, and what you can do for your age when it comes. To discover is a hard thing, but it is worth while to know what it is that you can do for the world in which you live. When you have discovered yourself and what you like, when you have discovered your age and what it needs, when you have discovered your own talents and what you can do for your age, then you have got the secret of life, then you are happy, then life brings to you every year fuller life. The pause that comes between the moment when you have just finished one impossible task and the next moment in which your next impossible task appears above the horizon for accomplishment—that is the peace—that moment contains the elixir of life, the hidden secret quintessence of life's sweetness. It is then, for us, early in life, to try to find ourselves—to try to find our age—and to try to find our work, and so doing to know that we have the peace which 'ear hath not heard nor eye seen, neither hath entered into the heart of man to conceive.'"

The services were in charge of the Rev. E. Victor Bigelow and he was assisted by Prof. Frank R. Shipman, a former pastor. The faculty and members of the school occupied seats in the front of the auditorium and the Abbot choir under the leadership of Prof. Ashton, rendered Garrett's Jubilate in F.

Tree Exercises

The Tree Exercises and Ivy Planting were held on the school lawn Tuesday morning at 10.30 o'clock and were attended by many friends of the school. The Tree Exercises were conducted by

The tree song was as follows:
The sun and the sky look down, little tree,
And did you come up to their light,
But the earth and your roots hold you fast, little tree, Giving moisture and warmth and might.

The birds will come to your shade, little tree,
And all of the light that they shed,
And you will give to the world, little tree,
The beauty and strength that you've found.

Like you, we want sun and the sky, little tree,
And all of the light that they shed,
But our roots, like yours, are deep here, little tree,
Where they have been strengthened and fed.

The Master has given us life, little tree,
Each day sending strength from above,
That we may give forth in our lives, little tree,
His beauty and truth and love.

Graduation Exercises

In the South Church on Tuesday morning at 11.00 o'clock the graduation exercises were held before a large audience, when a class of forty-five young ladies received diplomas. Thirty-three of the graduates were included in the academic course and twelve in the college preparatory course.

The center of the church auditorium was occupied by the students of the school, who marched in just previous to the beginning of the exercises, the lower classes first and then the Seniors each carrying a long-stemmed rose. Frederic G. Moore acted as marshal.

The Rev. Albert Parker Fitch, D.D., president of the Board of Trustees, presided. The address was delivered by Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, D.D., who spoke in part as follows:

"Members of Abbot Academy and families and friends who have come to see these young ladies take their entrance into the larger world of opportunity, I propose speaking to you this morning upon a parallel characteristic in the life of young womanhood of today as found in a familiar Hebrew text about a man on the field of battle who had been entrusted to guard a prisoner and suddenly wakes up to find the prisoner gone, and his explanation of how this happened is so simple and true and so universal in its appeal: 'As thy servant was busy here and there, he was gone.' I wonder if that is not the way with a good many of us, that while busy here and there, we lose sight of the most important things. I do not really think the greatest peril in life is skeptical disbelief in morals and spiritual value. Mark Twain said 'I can resist anything except temptation.' Our life time here is limited. We can hold just so many like interests and no more. I am sure this is a neglected emphasis in our teaching and preaching. It is not simply true that God gave all this to us but it is also true that this is all God gave to us. You have not the whole earth for a field, you have a comparatively limited field. Don't let every room be full until when the Christ comes, there is no place for Him in the Inn. I have a friend, a librarian, and a father spoke to him about his son, saying he was going to the dogs, and the thing he was most interested in was reading detective stories. The librarian said, 'Let him come to me and I will speak to him.' My friend provided him with good books and he became very much interested in reading them. After a while the young lad went on a field trip with the librarian. So to make a long story short this boy read all the books in the Brooklyn library and borrowed books from New York. That boy with his splendid capacities is now a geologist."

"Now you young women for many years have been in schools where your intellectual interests have been under superintendence. Many of you are now going out where your work will no longer have oversight. You are going out to an age when every kind of interest will come to you. On every side the sensitive man and woman feels the interests of life appeal for attention until there is nothing I think young folks need more than 'selection attention'. One of the important needs of young folks today is an artistic conception. It is said 'you can tell the artist by what he leaves out.'"

"May I in these few moments speak to you out of my practical experience with young men and women? Take precaution for instance; how many are losing their fine conscience that way. I know boys better than I know girls and I can find nothing more stimulating than chivalrous young fellows just starting out in life, who would be worthy once more to take the oath of King Arthur's table. So many of these young fellows will go out into life and find life so fascinating that their high ideals are left behind, with so many interests. Quiet hours of prayer are neglected. Some day they will need their conscience and will wake up to find that while they were busy here and there, it was gone. A few months ago in a legislative office of ours, a legislator was sitting at his desk and into his office came a man who after standing a while offered him a bribe for a vote. That man was on his feet in an instant, watch in hand, and said, 'You infernal scoundrel, you, I will give you just two minutes to get out of sight and at the end of that time if you are still in sight, I will thrash you.' Is there anything the men and women of this generation need more than a good conscience? But it can be lost while we are busy here and there, and I find that young people so quickly lose a spiritual sense. I think I can almost assume that all of you know what I mean by that, when true endowments stand out from the false ones. Now the thing that some of us who know life pretty well fear about you is just this, that you will go out into the world preoccupied with a hundred thousand things until some day when you need God, when life is not worth living without God, you will discover that while you were busy here and there, He was gone. When you go away this summer you need not bother about the kitchen stove, it will be there when you get back, but you would take care of a violin so it would not be ruined."

"You women must preserve the ideals for us men. Men will be dependent on you for the quick sense of the divine; it may be father, brother, lover, husband. And may I suggest further that I find young people continually losing the capacity to enjoy the fine things of life. The more I come in contact with the young life of America, the more I am persuaded that it is not bad, but that it is vulgar. Great books, beautiful poetry, fine art, noble architecture, etc. these things so often not seen or duly appreciated, until men and women who go out as you of today with a fine sense of response to all that is beautiful and true, come to be as we see people today, careless of its beauties, history, symbolism, etc. I remember once standing in the Rembrandt room in the Amsterdam Gallery seeing those great pictures, and I was disturbed by a nudge on my shoulder by an American man who said, 'Say, is there anything here that is worth looking at?' That is the trouble with American life; while we are busy here and there, the fine things go, and last of all how many of our finest young men and women who never would call themselves selfish are sinking into selfishness and losing opportunities of splendid service simply being busy here and there. Selfishness has never had a defender and never really will. You will go out into the communities and will find yourself called in multitudinous ways to pleasure, comfort, etc. Now you will not misunderstand me, pleasure and recreation are the oil of life, and laughter the gift of the Gods to the sons and daughters of men. The way to look at interests that appeal to your attention is to think, how important is it, how much time does it deserve? Is it crowding you out from real service to the community? You are going out to a time when opportunities for service are greater than ever before. Doors are now open to you that your mothers and grandmothers never dreamed of. May God grant that you will 'put first things first.' Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness."

The presentation of the diplomas to the members of the graduation class was made by the principal, Miss Bertha Bailey.

Alumnae Meeting

The annual meeting of the Abbot Academy Alumnae Association took place in Abbot Hall on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, with a good attendance. Mrs. Henrietta (Leary) Sperry, of the class of 1863, presided. In connection with the secretary's report, the list was read of the five members who have died during the year, ending with the name of Miss Maria S. Merrill, who died in Portland on March 30.

Tributes by pupils and friends of Miss Merrill to her abiding influence were read by Miss Julia Twichell. Miss Kelsey told of the quick and generous response made in the last few weeks to the letters sent out by Miss Mason and herself suggesting as a visible memorial to Miss Merrill an adequate entrance to the grounds on School street, including a gateway and wall. The sum of $2,026 has already been given in pledges and money, nearly half the amount which has been deemed necessary for the purpose.

Miss Bailey gave her usual cordial greeting to the alumnae and reported the acquisition of the Shearer house and the Carter property by the trustees, and various gifts to the school. Among these were the sum of $500 from Miss Mary Spalding of 1868 for the McKean Scholarship Fund, an addition to the Downs Recital Fund of over $300 from Mrs. Irene Rowley Draper of 1843 and a bequest of $2,000 from Miss Susan B. Chase of 1893 together with her books, photographs and medals. The means of indirect lighting in the dining room was the gift of the class of 1915, and 1916 has presented a handsome divan for the drawing room. The Abbot Club of New York is raising a scholarship of $600 which will be used next year for the daughter of one of the members.

Part of the income of the McKean Art Fund for the year was used to meet the expenses of the exhibition of paintings in the John-Esther Gallery by Miss Marion L. Cooke, a Boston artist and teacher at Abbot Academy.

Miss Bailey spoke most feelingly of the loss sustained by the Academy in the death of its two trustees, Professor Taylor and Mr. Alden, and its long-time teacher, Miss Merrill.

The new trustee recently elected as a special representative of the body of alumnae, Mrs. Grace Carleton Dryden, 1886, former president of the New York Abbot Club, was presented to the association and expressed her appreciation of the honor and responsibility of the office. A committee to report on methods of nominating candidates for this position was appointed, with Miss Udetta Brown, 1899, as chairman. Miss Helen Heywood, 1880, was appointed to the advisory committee, as was also Miss Sylvia Gutterson, president of the out-going class.

Mrs. Margaret (Fowle) Sears, now historian of the Boston Abbot Club, asked for aid in gathering material for the proper recognition of the approaching twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the club.

After serving two years, Mrs. Sperry declined reelection, and Miss Julia Twichell, 1879, was elected president. Two new vice-presidents were chosen, Miss Josephine Wilcox, 1881, and Mrs. Nellie (Barron) Brainerd, 1879. The absence of the secretary, Miss Agnes Park, was much regretted. Her place was taken by the assistant secretary. Enthusiastic reports from the classes having reunions formed a pleasant part of the program. A greeting was read from the sole representative of the eighty-year class, who is also the oldest alumna of the school, Mrs. Elizabeth (Barnwell) Flanders of Los Angeles, Cal. The association voted to send her a message. The seventy-five year class was represented by a greeting from Mrs. Luthera (Sheldon) Wightman, of Lowell and by the presence during the day of the son, four granddaughters and a great-grandson of Mrs. Hannah (Phelps) Gutterson, 1851 was represented by Mrs. Maria (Parker) Howard, who came with her daughter, her granddaughter, Miriam (Howard) Bushnell, 1911, and her great-granddaughter.

In response to a printed message of welcome sent out by the association to all classes having especial anniversaries this year, many letters have been received. Those from 1856 were from Mrs. Mary (Hazen) Finn, Mrs. Hannah (Flint) Brown, graduates, Mrs. Jennie (Stimson) Levy, written from Paris, and several others. A message came also from the twin sisters, Mrs. Victoria (Wilder) George and Mrs. Virginia (Wilder) Coates, who will be seventy-five years old on June 12. Five Andover girls of the same year were present, Mrs. Augusta (Abbott) Martin, Mrs. Caroline (Baker) Berry, Mrs. Abby (Chandler) Smith, Miss Sarah C. Harvey and Mrs. Sarah (Lamson) Scudder.

The fifty-year class had four members present out of eight now living. These were Mrs. Sarah (Hunking) Cheney, Mrs. Sarah (Lord) Hall, Mrs. Henrietta (Walker) Day, and Miss Sarah Gray. Each made a pleasant response to the roll call.

The twenty-five year class, 1886, made a splendid showing with nine members. Mrs. Harriet (Raymond) Brosnan responded for the class, referring to their pride in the new alumna trustee. The classes of 1881, 1896, 1906, 1911, 1914 and 1915 also had reunions. The recent alumnae serenaded the school, Miss Bailey and Miss Kelsey, Monday evening after the musicale.

Of the graduating class thirty-three have already become members of the association.

Shakespeare Festival

An out-of-door Shakespeare Festival will be held on the green in front of the Pynchard School next Friday, June 16, at 4 o'clock, under the auspices of the English department of Pynchard. Scenes from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and "A Winter's Tale" will be given, together with music and dancing appropriate to the Elizabethan period. The scenes from the plays are from an arrangement by H. Winthrop Peirce, to whom the school is greatly indebted for his help in matters of costume and production. Miss Taylor, director of physical training in the public schools, has given liberally of her time and interest in drilling the dancers. Miss Meyer has not only trained the singers but has composed some special music for the festival. Miss Smith, the head of the English department, has the general management of the festival.

The public is most cordially invited to attend. No admission fee will be charged. It is, of course, impossible to expect busy young people at the close of the school year to achieve professional standards, but we feel sure the friends of the school will be lenient in their judgment and will enter into the spirit of merrie England which the scholars are, trying to call from the past.

Temperature Kept Right

Freight cars for shipping bananas in winter are heated by half a dozen or so large oil stoves ranged down the center of the car. The temperature is kept at an average of 35 degrees.

"The Sign of Quality"

Insecticide

Cattle Oil—La-Lo Animal Spray to keep flies and mosquitoes from cattle and horses. Disinfectants for the Poultry house and stable. Arcinate of Lead, Paris Green, Bordeaux Mixture, etc., for the garden and farm pests.

heart and soul—wrapped in the work of the school they had founded, entertaining George Washington on his journey through New England. The picture showed a small reception given him, wherein gay damsels courted to their "Highnesses"—and a staid Quakeress, refusing to endorse fashion's dictates, gave her hand in greeting, with a word of commendation for peaceful measures, to the great general. All these persons joined in a long parade of ladies in colonial garb. The Civil War period, with an interval of scenes from Uncle Tom's Cabin, when Mrs. H. B. Stowe was viewed at her old-time desk, with Uncle Tom, Little Eva, Topsy, Miss Ophelia, and other prominent characters, while the Goddess of Liberty in splendid array stood with her torch ready to crown the Civil War veterans—tenderly escorted by a generous guard of school girls. Mention must here be made too, of a miniature Uncle Sam, four years old—Hartwell Abbott, a lineal descendant of the Pilgrims.

The closing scene enacted in the pageant was given by the Phillips Academy students, illustrating the efficiency that may be obtained through a military drill with only eight weeks' training. Surely the leaders, Dr. Page and W. H. Lillard, proved their point. After the pageant a delightful exhibit of Old English dancing on the green was given by a group of young men and women most kindly brought to Andover for that purpose by James Storrow.

The full receipts of the afternoon have not been ascertained, but a substantial sum will thus be added to the fund accumulating toward the purchase of a suitable home for the Historical Society.

In this connection the general invitation is extended to the citizens of the town, to visit the rooms now occupied by the association, 71 Main street, tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock, when a fine display of antiques, enhanced by a large number of pewter articles loaned for this purpose, will be on exhibition. Tea will be served.

The program was as follows:

McDOUGALL'S MUSINGS

A Roundabout Paper

Gladstone lived to be over eighty and was noted for his temperance in eating and drinking. After he was seventy, he was thought of as a young man and carried on his shoulders the premiership of England and Chancellor of Exchequer at the same time and when he made the usual annual budget statement that year instead of having two hours of dry statistics, the House thought that he was reading an Epic poem. He usually took only one glass of sherry wine at dinner and often only a small piece of mutton and a bit of turnip, while others around him were trying to imitate Lord Palmerston whose stomach was able to manage the dinner. The speaker of the House of Commons gives the details which I now note only adding that Palmerston took a glass of good claret with every plate and also a glass of good port wine with a little bit of cheese and a bit of bread and butter to finish his dinner.

A Statesman's Meal

"The Life of Benjamin Disraeli," drags its slow length along. The fourth volume has just been published and at the end only the year 1868 is reached. A passage may here be quoted while table pleasure is the subject; it is Speaker Denison's account of Palmerston at dinner. "Dined with the Prime Minister, who was upwards of 80 years of age. He ate for dinner two plates of turtle soup; he was then served very amply to a plate of cod and oyster sauce; he then took a pate; afterwards he was helped to two very greasy looking entrees; he then dispatched a plate of roast mutton; there then appeared before him the largest, and to my mind the hardest slice of ham that ever figured on the table of a nobleman, yet, it disappeared, just in time to answer the inquiry of his butler, 'Snipe, my lord, or pheasant?' He instantly replied, 'Pheasant,' thus completing his ninth dish of meat at that meal. I need not tell you what is the state of his health."

I have seen Palmerston. He was a well made man, about six feet and when he was over seventy years of age, he rode on horseback (20 miles) to the Derby. By the way Palmerston was supposed to be the best linguist in England and her best diplomat. He began his diplomatic training when he was twenty and had during his long life lived at every court in Europe. He is reported as saying that language is for expressing the meaning of what you want to say, but is used to hide what you want to say in diplomatic correspondence. Russia, Palmerston said, had the best diplomats in Europe and the only way to read their dispatches was to hold the paper upside down.

Disraeli, Palmerston, and Gladstone have all gone over to the majority. They were great men in their day. Sometime ago I wrote about flying machines and said that they might now and again be used in warfare, but that for everyday use, for practical purposes, they were a delusion and a snare. The amount of silly talk published in otherwise sensible newspapers about flying machines made in this country being superior to those made anywhere else is simply absurd at least the Boston News Bureau speaks out freely and does not mince matters as the following editorial of May 29 tells us the truth:

"A Dutch aviator, says the day's news, is coming to America to purchase aeroplanes for his government. While here, it is his intention to make a study of our aeroplane industry and of our army aviation, and to make report on them to his government."

"What will he report?" "He will report that our whole army only equals the number of men engaged in aeroplane making and operating in France. He will report that our aviation corps is helpless, because our Congress will not vote the money it needs to continue operations. He will report that our army aviators do not possess training on a par with that of the European aviator, because we have no facilities for machine gun or bomb practice, none but out-of-date machines, and too few of those, and no money to devote to an aviation school."

"He will report that our Mexican punitive expedition took all the available army planes with it; that these plane were of such wretched construction and design that they were a source of constant danger and trouble; that they were unfitted to withstand the shocks of landing on unknown ground, or the stresses from sudden air currents issuing from ravines and crevasses. And he will report that these six aeroplanes no longer exist, the last of them having been wrecked, and burned to prevent capture, weeks ago."

"He will report that a navy aviator recently fell to his death in the presence of his three little children, because of the limitations of an old-style hydro-aeroplane, and if he goes back over the list of the brave officers who have died in our air service, he will report more of such cases."

"He will report that private persons are soliciting private funds, and private organizations are training and enrolling aviators, to supply the nation's need and mask the nation's shame. He will report that the United States, making every conceivable kind of heavier-than-aircraft for Europe, has not a single swift, quick-climbing monoplane for aerial duelling; that it has not an aeroplane with a machine gun mounted thereon; that it has not even a standard aerial bomb; that it has no heavy, armored machines capable of carrying passengers, heavy armament or great loads of bombs; that it has so few aviator officers that the loss of a half-dozen would cripple its military air service, and that the whole service is in small repute."

"He would report that the country of Langley, Curtiss and the Wrights is, in aviation, the last in the civilized world."

Of course, when we get Wilson out and the man in who, when he got a ride in a flying machine, said it was "bully" we will get a lot of useless, bully machines.

Unpopular Stand

"Do you know how much the war is costing Europe every day?" asked the statistician.

"No," answered the busy man. "I only know the number of friends it has cost me in my home town to maintain strict neutrality."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Russell in Jamaica Plain. Guests were present from Andover, Jamaica Plain and Boston.

FROST-HOLLISTER

Friends of Prof. Elliot Park Frost will be interested to learn of his marriage on Saturday June 3, to Miss Elizabeth Hollister, Rochester, N. Y. The ceremony took place at the bride's home, 8 Granger Place, in the presence of one hundred and fifty intimate friends of bride and groom. Among the out-town guests were the groom's uncle, Thomas B. Frost, and family of Chelsea, and George B. Frost, the groom's father of Andover. The gifts to the couple were many and beautiful and among them were choice gifts from Andover friends. After the reception the happy couple motored some sixty miles to a quiet retreat on the Genesee River to await the marriage of the bride's sister, June 15 after which they are to spend the honeymoon in the wilds of northern Canada. In September, they will begin housekeeping in Knoxville, Tenn., where Mr. Frost's work is, as Professor of Psychology in its university.
